To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I recommend Adam Olson for any teaching, technical or leadership position he's seeking. I first met Adam nearly 15 years ago while he was a student at BYU where I was teaching a seminar on surround sound engineering. Adam volunteered to help setup and tear down my presentation there. Since then I've worked with Adam as an Adjunct Professor in the MPRT Program at Shenandoah University for the last 7 years, and Adam has always displayed a high degree of integrity, responsibility, and ambition. He is definitely a leader rather than a follower and always interested in creating programs of the highest technical level. He is also a dependable team player and always ready to help with any of my projects.

Adam would be an asset to any organization or program, and I am happy to give him my wholehearted endorsement.

Sincerely,
